

Diana Campbell Betancourt is the Artistic Director of the Samdani Art Foundation and is based in Mumbai. She also spends time in Hyderabad leading the Creative India Foundation, a private foundation building India's first international sculpture park and contributing to new commissions of Indian art at institutions including Yorkshire Sculpture Park, deCordova Sculpture Park, Wanas Konst. Betancourt co-curated "Energy Plus," the Mumbai City Pavilion for the 9th Shanghai Biennale, and curated several important public projects in India including Shilpa Gupta's acclaimed "I Live Under Your Sky Too" in Mumbai and the public art program at Phoenix Market City (ArtC) in Chennai. In 2013 DNA news named her India's "Curator of the Year" along with Geetha Kapur and she is nominated as Emerging Curator of the Year for the Forbes India Art Awards. Betancourt is a Princeton graduate and the proud Chairman of the Board of the Mumbai Art Room, one of India's premier non-profit art spaces.